CORPORATION OF CALCUTTA

YEAR BOOK

Printed at the Corporation Press

Acc. no. 1995
PT-2616607

1942-43

Due to paper rationing towards the end of 1942 and also on account of paper of the requisite quality not being available, the Corporation Year Book could not be issued in 1943. Another factor which stood in the way of its publication was the restrictions imposed by Government under the Defence of India Rules, in accordance with which, the Corporation had to apply for special permission of the Government of India which involved considerable delay.

The Calcutta Municipal Gazette is the weekly history of the City of Calcutta—of its efforts to realise itself along right ways of progress and development.

The Calcutta Municipal Gazette has certain very definite functions. Some of them are:—

THE CALCUTTA TOWN HALL.

Before the present Town Hall at Esplanade Row, West, was erected, the first Town Hall or Court House stood at the northern end of the present Old Court House Street. For many years this building was the venue of social gatherings, till the year 1791, when it began to show signs of insecurity and the building was pulled down in 1792, under orders of Government.

On the 5th November, 1793, the citizens of Calcutta, at a public meeting, voted a statue to Lord Cornwallis. In 1804 it was further decided to set up a statue of Lord Wellesley, and two Committees were formed to give effect to the proposals, but it occurred to some one that marble statues would quickly deteriorate in the Calcutta climate, and it was proposed by means of public lotteries to construct a Town Hall in which these and other statues might be erected. The proposal was approved by Government, and the construction of the Hall at its present site was completed in 1814 at a cost of Rs. 7 lakhs.

The Town Hall remained in charge of Government for 50 years. In 1864, it was transferred to the Justices of the Peace (predecessors of the present Corporation of Calcutta) together with the proprietary rights in the building, furniture, etc., and with the sole and unrestricted authority for management. The transaction was ratified by Section 20 of Act IX of 1867. The building was subsequently equipped, and decorated with valuable paintings, portraits, busts, etc., and improved and renovated as occasions arose, at considerable cost.

Till recently, the Hall had been the venue of public meetings and social gatherings and also accommodated the Municipal Magistrates' Courts and some of the offices of the Corporation of Calcutta.

Since September, 1945, the Town Hall has been closed to the public, Government having taken over the buildings for office purposes. At present the offices of the Controller of Rationing, Calcutta Area, are housed in the Town Hall.

Calcutta Fire Brigade

Head Quarters—Free School Street.

Tel: Ask for "FIREBRIGADE."

With the enactment in 1893 of the Licensed Warehouse and Fire Brigade Act (Act I B C. of 1893), the Calcutta Fire Brigade was brought into being for the purpose of providing a machinery for fighting fires in Calcutta, Howrah and other adjacent areas to be notified from time to time by the Local Government.

At present, the Calcutta Fire Brigade serves the area within the municipal limits of Calcutta Howrah and Garden Reach.

PUBLIC UTILITY SERVICES—(Contd.)

The Head Quarters of the Fire Brigade is located at 13/D, Free School Street, Calcutta. There are 7 Sub-Stations in the different parts of the city and suburbs.

The Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, who is in charge of the administrative control of the Brigade, is vested with powers to maintain an efficient Fire Brigade to serve the areas indicated above. The powers conferred on the Commissioner of Police in respect of Calcutta and its suburbs under the provisions of Sections 36 and 37 of the Act, viz., the control of letting off of rockets or sending up of balloons and the withdrawal or suspension of licenses granted in that behalf, are exercised in the Municipality of Howrah by the Magistrate of the District. The Commissioner of Police is assisted by a Chief Officer, a Second Officer, a Chief Engineer and staff necessary for due discharge of the duties imposed on him by the statute.

One half of the cost of the Fire Brigade is met out of the proceeds from the fees levied upon all warehouses within the municipal areas, the other half being borne by the Municipalities concerned from their general revenues in the following proportion:—

- (1) Corporation of Calcutta—33.5 per cent.
- (2) Howrah Municipality—14 per cent.
- (3) Garden Reach—2.5 per cent.

The Act authorises the Commissioners of the above Municipalities to impose rateably fees payable annually for licenses under Section 10 of the Act, upon all warehouses and to appropriate towards the cost of the Fire Brigade the amount derived from such annual fees and all penalties and fines imposed and all rates levied under the Act.

MOTOR AMBULANCE SERVICE—(Contd.)

- (iv) The Health Officer has the discretion to reduce or remit the charges mentioned in (a), (b) (ii) and (iii) in special cases, but the permission of the Health Officer is to be obtained in writing by the party previous to the use of the ambulances and the same to be handed over to the driver who will remove the patient and the driver will submit it in the ambulance office on the following day.

In case of patients (suffering from non-infectious diseases) outside the jurisdiction of the Corporation of Calcutta.

(i) Same rate as in 2 A above plus 0-8-0 per mile for the distance covered by the ambulance bothways, i.e., from the place of starting of the ambulance for the call—back to the ambulance station or to the place from which the ambulance is engaged on other call). The services of the ambulances cannot be guaranteed outside the Municipal limits of the Corporation of Calcutta but ordinarily the ambulance may be sent to the adjoining Municipalities such as Howrah, Baranagar, Dum Dum, Garden Reach, Tollygunge and South Suburban, etc., provided they can be spared from the area of the Corporation of Calcutta but the permission of the Health Officer or in his absence that of the in-charge of the Ambulance Station must be obtained by the Telephone clerk before the ambulance is turned out for calls for longer distance.

(ii) Cases under 1 (i), 1 (ii), 1 (iii) and 1 (iv) but outside the Corporation of Calcutta will be charged mileage only.

(iii) If more than one patient is conveyed by the same ambulance in the same trip to the same Hospital, the mileage for the actual miles travelled by the ambulance bothways will be charged and no separate charge for the individual patient will be made.

The Health Officer is empowered to reduce or remit the above charges in special cases as in 2A (iv).

MOTOR AMBULANCE SERVICE—(Contd.)

3. In all cases in which fees are payable the amount due must be paid on the spot to the driver who is supplied with a book of vouchers and will give a printed receipt in return for the proper fee. The system of realising the ambulance charge in some cases by sending bills to the party is discontinued but the Health Officer may relax the above at his discretion in case payment is to be realised from a Company or other Municipality but when an individual person is concerned the amount must be paid to the driver on the spot.

4. In all cases under section 1 motor ambulances will turn out on the requisition of any person if there are reasonable grounds to consider the call a bona-fide one.

5. The Health Officer has the option of refusing to send the ambulances outside the Municipal limits of the Corporation of Calcutta and in all cases in which there is reason to doubt the bona-fides of the parties requisitioning.

6. The Health Officer has the power to send back the patients home or to the place from which they are picked up by the ambulance free of charge provided such patients are refused admission by most of the Hospitals and cannot be conveyed by any other conveyance and also cannot afford to pay the prescribed charge owing to poverty. In such cases driver concerned will have to obtain the permission of the Health Officer or the certificate of the Doctor on duty of the last Hospital in writing in the driver's pocket book if the Health Officer is not available.

7. Patients conveyed by the ambulances from Hospital to another Hospital for X-ray or for other treatment on payment will be charged (but the Health Officer has the discretion to reduce or remit the above charge if he thinks proper) as in 2.A (iv).

8. In time of receiving calls the Telephone clerks must inform the parties that they are to pay the ambulance charge if any, according to the prescribed rates to the driver in cash on the spot.

ASSESSMENT OF PREMISES.

On rental basis.

1. In case of a building let out ordinarily to tenants, the annual valuation is determined by taking the gross annual rent by reasonable estimation expected to be derived from year to year after deducting from the same an allowance of 10 per cent. for the cost of repairs and all other expenses for the up-keep of the building.

For example, a building reasonably expected to fetch a rent of Rs. 100 a month, the annual valuation will be Rs. 1,080 as calculated below :—

	Ra.
Rs. 100×12	1,200
Less 10 per cent. of Rs. 1,200	120
Total	1,080

On residential basis.

2. In case of a building which is used and occupied by the owner for residential purposes, the annual valuation is determined by taking 5 per cent. of the total of the estimated present value of land and the estimated present cost of construction of the building less depreciation, if any.

For instance, if there is a newly constructed house on 6 kottahs of land of which the estimated value of land is Rs. 2,000 per kottah and the estimated cost of erecting the building is Rs. 20,000, then the annual valuation is Rs. 1,600 as worked out below :—

	Ra.
Price of land Rs. 2,000×6	12,000
Cost of erecting building	20,000
Total	32,000
5 per cent. of Rs. 32,000	1,600

ASSESSMENT OF PREMISES—(Contd.)

Exemptions—Where allowed.

3. Buildings used exclusively for purposes of Public Worship and Public Burial Grounds are ipso facto exempted from payment of rates.

The Corporation may either wholly or partially exempt from rates all lands or buildings used exclusively for purposes of Public Charity.

The Corporation may also exempt the owner of any hut from payment of the whole or any portion of the consolidated rate in respect of such hut and may also exempt the land on which the hut is built.

The Corporation may, by resolution, exempt from the consolidated rate all lands and buildings the annual valuation of which does not exceed Rs. 20 provided the owner does not own or occupy any other land or building the total valuation of which does not exceed Rs. 20.

MUTATION.

Any owner or occupier may at any time apply to the Assessor to have his name registered in the assessment book. The owner, particularly, is under a legal obligation to have his name so registered. In case of transfer of a property, the transferee shall apply for mutation within three months after the execution of the deed of transfer or after transfer is effected in cases where no such deed is executed. In case of death of an owner, the person in whom the property vests shall apply for mutation within one year from the death of such owner. To expediate business all such applications for registration of name should be accompanied with documentary evidence, if there be any. Forms for such applications can be had from the Department.

SEPARATION.

Separation of number and assessment can be applied for at any time on account of division of ownership by sale or otherwise. If there is no such division of ownership separation is not allowed except at the time of revaluation of a property. In any case of the property sought to be separately assessed must be made physically separate by boundary walls or, in cases of bare lands, at least by demarcating pillars. All applications for such separation must be accompanied with a block plan showing the boundary of the entire premises and the portions to be separately assessed marked clearly to show the manner of separation wanted. When division of ownership is involved, documentary evidence must be produced along with the application for separation.

OCCUPANCY.

When any land or building which has been unoccupied is occupied the owner shall give written notice of such occupation to the Assessor within fifteen days from the date of occupation.

REFUND.

All applications for refund of rate paid in excess may be made to the Assessor, and such applications must be accompanied with the paid-up rate-bill in support of the claim for refund.

BUILDING REGULATIONS.

Security of Buildings.—Property owners and tenants having any doubt regarding the condition of old buildings, should communicate with the City Architect (Central Municipal Office) who will send Building Surveyors to give advice in the matter and to take such action as is necessary if the buildings are found to be in a dangerous condition or in need of protective measures.

Unauthorised construction.—Action is taken promptly in cases where the erection of or alteration or addition to a building or a hut is undertaken without formal sanction and notice in this connection should be forwarded to the City Architect.

Hut Plans.—For the poorer classes these plans may be prepared by the Corporation Draughtsmen on payment at the City Architect's Office of a fee of Rs. 2 for each application.

MUNICIPAL HISTORY.

The history of Municipal administration in Calcutta dates from 1727, when the first Corporation came into existence. It consisted of a Mayor and nine Aldermen, and its duties were to collect ground rents and town dues, and to make the necessary repairs to roads and drains. The amount thus spent was, however, insignificant. An effort was made about 1757, to organise a municipal fund by levying a house tax, but the scheme came to nothing. The duty of keeping the town in order rested with the Police Commissioner; but its insanitary condition was notorious, and in 1780 the town was thus described by Mackintosh:—

"It is a truth that, from the western extremity of California to the eastern coast of Japan, there is not a spot where judgment, taste, decency and convenience are so grossly insulted as in that scattered and confused chaos of houses, huts, sheds, streets, lanes, alleys, windings, gulleys, sinks and tanks, which, jumbled into an undistinguished mass of filth and corruption, equally offensive to human sense and health, compose the capital of the English Company's Government in India. The very small portion of cleanliness which it enjoys is owing to the familiar intercourse of hungry jackals by night, and ravenous vultures, kites and crows by day. In like manner it is indebted to the smoke raised on public streets in temporary huts and sheds for any respite it enjoys from mosquitoes, the natural productions of stagnated and putrid waters."

By a statute of George III. Justices of the Peace were appointed for the town in 1794, and regular assessments were authorised. The Circular Road was metalled, and the conservancy establishment was increased. But many defects remained, and in 1803 Lord Wellesley pointed out the extremely defective construction of the public drains and water courses, the absence of any regulations in respect of the situation of public markets and slaughter-houses, the irregularity of the buildings and the dangerous conditions of the streets, and appointed a Town Improvement Committee of 30 members to carry out the necessary reforms.

MUNICIPAL HISTORY.—(Contd.)

Since 1793 it had been the practice to raise money for public improvement by means of lotteries, ten per cent. of their value being set aside for public works or charitable purposes. As long as the Town Improvement Committee existed, these funds were made over to it; but in 1817 a Lottery Committee was formed which was employed for 20 years in schemes for the improvement of the town. During this period a great advance was undoubtedly made. The Town Hall was built, the Beliaghata Canal dug, and a large number of streets were opened out, including the Strand Road, Amherst Street, Colootolla and Mirzapore Streets, Free School Street, Kyd Street, Canal Road, Mangoe Lane and Bentinck Street, and the long roadway formed by Cornwallis Street, College Street, Wellington Street and Wellesley Street, with the four adjoining squares. Arrangement for watering the streets was also introduced. In 1820 a systematic plan for road metalling was adopted at an annual cost of Rs. 25,000. Public opinion in England having condemned this method of providing funds for Municipal purposes, the Lottery Committee came to an end in 1836.

Meanwhile, under the Act of 1794, the Justices had met the expenses of the conservancy and police of the town from a tax on houses and licenses for the sale of liquor. In 1819 the house tax realised a little over 2½ lakhs and in 1836 this had risen to 3 lakhs while 1½ lakhs was derived from excise. The expenditure on conservancy and police was at this period 5½ lakhs the difference being made up by Government.

In 1810 the principle of municipal taxation was extended to the suburbs. In 1840 an Act was passed dividing Calcutta into four divisions and authorising the ratepayers, on an application made by two-thirds of them, to undertake their town assessment, collection and management of the rates up to a limit of 5 per cent. on the assessable property in Calcutta. Nothing came of this Act, and in 1847 the Justices were replaced by a Board of seven paid members, four of whom were to be elected by the ratepayers. They were empowered to purchase and hold property for the improvement of Calcutta and to make surveys, and were entrusted with the maintenance of the streets and drainage. In 1852 their number was reduced to four, two being appointed by Government and two elected; and they were allowed a maximum salary of Rs. 250 a month. The house tax raised first to 6½ per cent. and later to 7½ per cent. and a 2 per cent. lighting rate and tax on carts were authorised; horses and vehicles had already been made taxable by the Act of 1847. The Commissioners were required to set aside 1½ lakhs for the sewage and drainage of the town. In 1856 their number was reduced to three, all of whom were appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor.

In 1863 the municipal government was vested in a body composed of all the Justices of the Peace for the town of Calcutta, together with all the Justices for the Province who happened to be resident in Calcutta. This body elected its own Vice-Chairman and had a regular Health Officer, Engineer, Surveyor, Tax Collector and Assessor. A water-rate was imposed and the house-tax raised to a maximum of 15 per cent. The Justices' power of borrowing was extended by several Acts, and during their period of office, the drainage and water-system of the town were largely developed. The New Market was erected in 1874 and the Municipal Slaughter houses in 1866. Footpaths were made along the main thoroughfares, Beadon Square was opened and in all about 2 crores were spent on the improvement of the town.

In 1876 a new Corporation was created, consisting of 72 Commissioners with a Chairman and a Vice-Chairman; 48 of the Commissioners were elected by the rate-payers and 24 appointed by the Local Government. This body completed the original drainage scheme, largely increased the supply of filtered and unfiltered water, and effected many other improvements, including the construction of the Harrison Road.

In 1888 the municipal boundaries were extended by the inclusion of a large portion of the suburbs lying south and east of the Circular Road. Seven wards were added, and additions were made to three other wards in the north of the town. The number of Municipal Commissioners was raised to 75, of whom 50 were elected, 15 appointed by Government, and the other 10 nominated by the Chamber of Commerce, the Trades Association and the Port Commissioners. During the following 10 years the filtered water supply was further augmented at a cost of 18 lakhs, and an underground drainage scheme for the Added Area was started. A Dhobikhana or laundry, and an Incinerator were constructed, and a number of insanitary tanks were filled up and replaced by roads and squares.

The municipal administration of the city was revised by Bengal Act III of 1899, and placed in the hands of three co-ordinate authorities—the Corporation, the General Committee and the Chairman. The Corporation consisted of the Chairman, appointed by Government and 50 Commissioners, of whom 25 were elected at ward elections, and the remainder were appointed as follows, viz., 4 by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, 4 by the Calcutta Trades Association, 2 by the Port Commissioners and 15 by the Bengal Government. The General Committee consisted of 12 Commissioners, and the Chairman, who was President. Of the Commissioners, 4 were elected by the Ward Commissioners, 4 by the appointed Commissioners, and the remaining 4 were appointed by the Local Government. The entire executive power was vested in the Chairman to be exercised subject to the approval or sanction of the Corporation or General Committee, whenever this was expressly directed in the Act. To the Corporation were reserved the right of fixing the rates of taxation and all those general functions which could be efficiently performed by a large body. The General Committee stood between the deliberative and the executive authorities, and dealt with those matters which were ill-adapted for discussion by the whole Corporation, but yet were too important to be left to the disposal of the Chairman alone.

The Municipal Act has recently been amended by the Bengal Council Act III of 1923, with a view to liberalise the constitution and bring it into harmony with present political conditions and tendencies. The changes came into force in April, 1924 and are described below.

The first change is in regard to the boundaries of Municipal Calcutta which has been enlarged by the inclusion of Cossipore-Chittpore, Maniktala, Garden

Reach, a small area out of Tollygunge in the vicinity of the Corporation drainage pumping station, and the land acquired by the Port Commissioners in the South Suburban Municipality for the extension of the Docks. This has added about $11\frac{1}{2}$ square miles to $18\frac{1}{2}$ square miles of the old Municipal area, and 1,69,000 to its population which (excluding the Fort, Maidan, Port, Canals) now stands at 10,55,000. Cossipore-Chit-pore has been divided into three Wards, viz., Wards 30, 31 and 32. Maniktala has been divided into two Wards, viz., Wards 28 and 29, while the whole of Garden Reach together with the Port Commissioners' land formerly situated in the South Suburban Municipality has been formed into one Ward, viz., Ward 26. The Corporation is required to pay Rs. 8,000 a year for ten years to the South Suburban Municipality as compensation for loss of income from the inclusion of the Dock extension area in Calcutta, and to spend annually, for ten years beginning from the third year after the commencement of the new Municipal Act, a sum of not less than one lakh on original improvement works in each of the three Municipalities added to Calcutta.

In the old Municipal area some of the Ward boundaries have been re-adjusted. Entally and Beniapukur which previously formed two Wards have now been made into three, while Ballygunge, which was previously (Ward 21) has now been cut up into two, viz., Ballygunge (Ward 21) and Tollygunge (Ward 27). Hastings which was Ward 18 of the Old Act has been amalgamated with Ward 25. Other changes which, however, are of a minor character have been made in the boundaries of Wards 9, 22, 23 and 24. The present Municipal area consists of 32 Wards, i.e., an addition of 7 Wards to the divisions existing since 1883.

In view of this extension of the Municipal area and the necessity of placing the constitution on a popular basis and providing for the adequate representation of local and special interests, it has been found necessary to considerably enlarge the Corporation. The present Corporation consists of 90 members, of whom 63 are elected. Of the 63 seats open to election, 15 are ear-marked for Mohammedians, who will be returned by exclusive Mohammedan constituencies at the first three elections, and by mixed electorates thereafter. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce now returns 6 members or two more, while the Calcutta Trades Association and the Port Commissioners return 4 and 2 members respectively as before. Government nomination have been reduced from 15 to 10. This makes a total of 85 members who are now called Councillors instead of Commissioners. The remaining 5 are called Aldermen, who are elected by the 85 Councillors after each general election. No Councillor can be elected as an Alderman. The elections are triennial and Councillors and Aldermen hold office for 3 years. The Corporation elect annually two of their number to be Mayor and Deputy Mayor.

It is not only in the matter of increase in the number of elected representatives that the constitution has been made democratic. The franchise has been lowered, women are now eligible to vote and to stand for election, and voting by ballot has been introduced. Under the old Calcutta Municipal Act the minimum qualification to be a voter was the payment of Rs. 24 to the Corporation for the year immediately preceding that of election as consolidated rate or license taxes or both; this minimum has now been lowered to Rs. 12. The franchise was previously restricted to owners, and occupiers of properties of a certain value and registered as such in the Corporation Assessment Books and to holders of certain classes of Licenses. Under the present law any occupier, whether occupying an entire premises or only a part, who has paid a rent of Rs. 25 per mensem for at least 6 months during the year last preceding the year in which the election is held, and any owner of a hut on account of which not less than Rs. 12 has been paid as consolidated rate, is eligible, the only condition being that he should get his name entered in a special register kept for the purpose. The system of plural voting under which a voter could have up to a maximum of 11 votes in any one ward according to the valuation of his properties in the Ward and could give all his votes to one candidate has been abolished. Under the present law every elector has as many votes as there are Councillors to be elected, but no elector can give more than one vote to any one candidate.

The system of three co-ordinate authorities, viz., the Corporation, the General Committee and the Chairman, each acting independently of the others within a circumscribed sphere, which was a special feature of the legislation of 1899, and a Chairman appointed by the Local Government exercising the triple functions of Head of the Executive, President of the General Committee and President of the Corporation has been abandoned. Almost all the powers and authority are now vested in the Corporation, who appoint, subject to the approval of the Local Government, the Head of the Executive who is called the Chief Executive Officer. Except in regard to assessment and a few other matters specially mentioned in the Act, the latter exercises only such authority as may be delegated to him by the Corporation and no longer presides at meetings but he has the right under the law of being present and taking part in the discussions as if he were a member although he cannot move any resolution or take part in the voting. The control of the Local Government has been relaxed to some extent in that the appointment of the Chief Executive Officer has been left to the Corporation subject to their approval, and it is only in the case of four other principal officers, viz., the two Deputy Executive Officers, the Chief Engineer and the Health Officer that the appointment and salary require the sanction of Government, whereas formerly cases of all officers drawing a salary of more than Rs. 1,000 per month had to be referred to Government. Further, in the case of works and contracts, Government sanction is required only in cases involving an expenditure of more than Rs. 2½ lakhs; the former limit was one lakh. By-laws and rules have still to be sanctioned by Government, who have retained the power to interfere in cases of neglect. They have also taken additional power in the present Act to annul any proceeding of the Corporation which they do not consider to be in conformity with law and to do all things necessary to secure such conformity.

MUNICIPAL HISTORY.—(Contd.)

A new tax on dogs kept in Calcutta has been introduced, but the maximum leviable is only Rs. 5 per year. The license taxes in respect of motor vehicles and some trades and professions have been enhanced and a number of trades which formerly escaped taxation have now been included. Theatres and similar places of public amusement have to be licensed and the fines for more serious offences, particularly those relating to food and drugs have been substantially increased.

The sphere of functions of the Corporation has been somewhat extended. Besides the obligation to spend Rs. 3 lakhs a year for 10 years on improvement works in the areas added to Calcutta a statutory liability to spend not less than a lakh every year for promoting primary education has been imposed. Specific powers have now been given to the Corporation to establish and maintain Municipal dairies, grazing ground and cow-sheds and take other steps for improving the milk supply. The law relating to food and drugs has been made more explicit while in the case of buildings, provision has been made for the system of licensed building surveyors and power has been given to the Corporation to decline to accept building plans for sanction unless they have been prepared and are signed by a licensed building surveyor. Persons desirous of erecting new buildings have to employ a licensed building surveyor or other competent person to supervise construction if the cost of the building is likely to exceed Rs. 50,000 or such other sum as the Corporation may prescribe.

The provision of funds for the establishment of playgrounds and their equipment has now been made permissible, and the Corporation have been empowered to open depots and shops for trading in foodstuffs, cloth, fuel and other necessities of life in an emergency with the sanction of the Local Government.

The year 1933 saw many important amendments in the Calcutta Municipal Act III of 1923.

1. The effect of the first of such amendments was to secure separate representation for the Kalighat area lately forming part of Bhowanipore, Ward 22. By the Calcutta Municipal Amendment Act XVI of 1932 the three seats allotted to Bhowanipore constituency was reduced to two and a new constituency known as Kali-ghat, Ward 22-A was created with only one seat.

2. The second material change in the Act was with regard to the constitution of the Corporation, which under the Calcutta Municipal (Second Amendment) Act XXIII of 1932 was to consist of 81 elected Councillors instead of 75 as previously. The six additional seats were allotted to the following constituencies, viz., Sukeaa Street (Ward No. 4), Burrabazar (Ward No. 7), Fenwick Bazar (Ward No. 13), Kalinga (Ward No. 15), Beniapukur (Ward No. 20), Belgachia (Ward No. 30).

3. The last was the change, which came into effect on the 16th November, 1933, by the passing of the Calcutta Municipal Amendment Act XI of 1933, whereby the Corporation is prohibited from appointing, except with the sanction of Government a person as a municipal officer or servant if he has been convicted of an offence against the State or has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term of three months or more or from making a grant knowingly to any institution, which has after the commencement of the Amendment Act taken into employment any person or to any person who has been similarly convicted or sentenced. The Act has provided for the dismissal of a municipal officer or servant, who after the commencement of the Act is convicted of an offence against the State or sentenced either to rigorous imprisonment for any term or to simple imprisonment for a term of six months or more, and has vested the auditors with very wide powers, viz., to disallow any item of account contrary to law and surcharge the same on the person making or authorising the making of illegal payment and also to charge against any person accounting any deficiency or loss incurred by his negligence or misconduct. It has been provided that such of the Councillors and Aldermen as will vote for a motion or a resolution authorising a payment held by the auditors to be illegal shall be held jointly and severally responsible for the same.

The Garden Reach Municipal Act III of 1932 having been passed on the 7th April 1932, the Garden Reach area (excluding the King George's Dock Area of the Port Commissioners of Calcutta) was excluded from the municipal limits of the Corporation, the number of elected Councillors being reduced by four.

The Scheme of compulsory Primary Education was introduced with the prior sanction of the Local Government in Ward 9 with effect from 14th November 1934.

For the first time since the enactment of the present Constitution, the Local Government exercised, in June 1934, the revisionary powers vested in itself under Section 19 of the Act. The occasion was the proceedings of the Corporation meeting in which Mr. A. K. Fazlul Haq was elected Mayor; this was annulled by the Local Government by a declaration issued a few weeks later.

Far-reaching changes were introduced in the constitution of the Municipal Corporation; separate constituencies were created for Mahammedans, and, also for the first time, for Anglo-Indians and labour. A certain number of seats were further reserved for members of the Schedule castes. The changes were effected in the following manner:—

(1) The number of seats open to election was enlarged from 77 to 85. 22 of these seats were reserved for Mahammedans, returnable by special constituencies.

(2) In the case of Schedule castes, 4 seats are reserved, to be returned by the general constituencies, and 3 by nomination.

(3) 2 seats are reserved for Anglo-Indians to be returned by their own special constituencies.

(4) 2 seats are reserved for labour.

The number of nominated Councillors was reduced from 10 to 8, three being reserved for members of the Schedule castes.

These changes were introduced by the amendment Act adopted by the Bengal Legislative Assembly in August, 1939, in the face of an influential opposition.

A SHORT HISTORY OF OLD CALCUTTA,

(From the earliest times to the middle of the 19th Century.)

Marshy land, with patches of thick scrub or jungle, and spots of rising ground (called Dikus) on which stood small villages; jackals howling, wildfowl in abundance, even crocodiles found occasionally, and dense jungle, in places infested with tigers—this is a picture of the site of present-day Calcutta, as it was prior to the 17th Century.

Three fairly large villages stood in a line on the eastern bank of the river Ganges, called Sutanuti, Kalikata and Govindpur, covering roughly the area along the river bank from present-day Baghbazar to Burrabazar, thence to Esplanade, and thence up to Hastings. These villages formed the nucleus of the Calcutta of to-day and the circumstances which led the English to establish their first settlement here in the 17th Century were as follows:—

The English "East India Company" of traders and merchants had, in the 17th Century, established a Factory at Hooghly, while similar rival establishments had been set up by the Danes at Serampur and the French at Chandernagore. Between the years 1686 and 1690, the English Factory was harried and the traders put to trouble owing to the hostile attitude of the Fouzdur (Governor of the Nawab) named Shaista Khan, so that ultimately the Chief Factor, Job Charnock, decided to remove the Factory elsewhere. They packed up bag and baggage and moved down the River in boats, until they came to the village of Sutanuti, described in contemporary documents as "a very small spot of rising ground on the east side of the river." They halted here for sometime, but the pursuing minions of Shaista Khan compelled them to move on, until they came to Hijli near the mouth of the river. Here the small band of adventurers threw up hasty encampments and stayed for about three months, during which nearly half their number died of disease. Charnock had previously sent an appeal to the Directors of the Company for help, in response to which Captain Hedges arrived with reinforcements and taking Charnock and his surviving men in his Ship, retired to Fort St. George (Madras) which was at that time the most important port held by the English in India.

In the meantime a new Moghul Governor named Ibrahim Khan had been appointed at Dacca, the then Capital of Bengal, who pursued a different policy. He held out the olive branch of peace to the English, and offered them Rs. 60,000 by way of compensation for goods plundered and losses suffered. On the 24th August, 1690, Charnock returned again to Sutanuti which had already appeared to him to be a suitable site for a Factory and prepared to settle there. All the former structures having been destroyed, new structures "with mud walls and thatched" were put up, in the midst of incessant rain, which frequently compelled the men to live in boats on the river. Thus was born the future city of Calcutta. Its founder Job Charnock lies buried in St. John's Churchyard, where a Mausoleum still stands over his grave. There were other scattered villages dotted about on all sides, standing amidst marshy stretches and paddy-fields. The area covered by the present "Maidan" was impenetrably dense jungle, infested with tigers and other wild animals. The "Esplanade" of our day was merely a clearance amid the surrounding jungle, containing a few hovels and patches of grazing or arable land.

The three villages, Sutanuti, Kalikota and Govindpur were formally taken on lease by the English in 1693, for which they had to pay annual rent of about Rs. 1,300 to the Emperor. The village of Kalikota was spelled then as "Collecotta" from which the present "Calcutta" was presumably derived. The first English settlement was practically centred in and about the modern Dalhousie Square, as the tank (then called "the Great Tank") was their source of water-supply. Gradually in course of time, with the expansion of their trade and growth of power, people began to come from places far and near and settle near the English, both for reasons of security in those troublous times as well as of trade. To safeguard their interests

a Fort was built on the site roughly corresponding with the "General Post Office" of to-day. It should be remembered that the river flowed further to the east than now—in fact, its east bank roughly corresponded to the back (west) of the G. P. O. By the year 1717, English trade and power had so expanded that they entered into negotiations with the Delhi Emperor and obtained a further lease of 33 villages (comprising such names as Beigachia, Surah, Ultadanga, Simla, Bagmari, Arcooly, Kankurgachi, Mirzapur, Sealdah, Tangra, Tiljala, Chowringhee, Entally, Chitpur, etc., many of which survive to this day in the street names of present-day Calcutta). The total rent payable to the Emperor now came to about Rs. 8,000 per annum, and practically this collection of villages became a miniature dependency of the English, who not only gathered revenue, and carried on trade but also "governed the entire area....." Following a series of unfortunate incidents in the year 1756 Nawab Serajuddowlah decided to attack Calcutta and sent an army for the purpose. The English made hasty preparations to meet the attack, but they were practically in a defenceless condition. 10 pieces of cannon (6 and 9 Pounders), 24 guns (from 2 to 4 Pounders) and some smaller mortars, etc., practically composed the artillery of the Fort, while 180 foot soldiers (of whom about 40 were Europeans) and 36 men of the Artillery Company, practically composed their garrison..... The fighting began on the 16th June, 1756, and by the 18th the superiority in numbers of the Nawab's army began to tell, so that by the 19th practically all the houses and positions surrounding the Fort had been taken, and the English were compelled to abandon the Fort and escape in boats down the river to Fulta. The heaviest fighting took place in the locality now named Mission Row.....In the next year (1757) Serajuddowlah was defeated by Clive at Plassey, and the English were rehabilitated in Calcutta. Their first concern was to build a new Fort, and the site of the present Fort William was selected. The surrounding jungle was cleared along with the village of Govindpur (the present Hastings area), the new Fort being begun in 1757 and completed in 1773. Concurrently with the clearing away of the "tiger-infested" jungle began the migration towards Chowringhee. By the end of the 18th Century there were about 20 garden houses with large compounds enclosed by high walls in the area now-a-days described as "south of Park Street," and this was called "Chowringhee" while the road was described as the "road to Chowringhee". Park Street at this time bore the name of "Burying Ground Road" on account of the English Burial Ground that stood and still stands at its eastern end. This locality was still so out of the way and unsafe on account of dacoits, that we read of Sir Elijah Impey's garden house and Deer Park (from which Park Street derives its name) being guarded at night by a squad of Sepoys. Another reason for the slow development of this area lay in the Creek which ran from the river eastwards away into the salt marshes beyond Beliaghata. This Creek, which was originally broad enough to be navigable by large boats, followed roughly the line of the present Hastings Street continued eastwards. It gradually dried up and was subsequently entirely filled up and obliterated, but its memory is still preserved in the street named "Creek Row" which follows the original course of the Creek.

During the 18th Century, as the English Settlement went on gradually developing from the nucleus at and about "Tank" (Dalhousie) Square, a separate settlement also went on developing in the outlying areas, described as the "Black Town" in contemporary documents, i.e., the Indian town. In the "English" quarters the Chief Official and residential quarters were round about "Tank Square". It is worthy of note that in Lt. Will's map of this locality dated 1756, there is only a single house marked as belonging to an Indian in this area, viz., Omichand's house which lay a little to the north of the present Writers' Buildings. Omichand was the merchant and banker whose dishonourable connection with Clive is well known. The business quarters were along "Cossaitolla Road" (Bentinck Street) and the Radhabazar and Chinabazar areas, where livery-stables, taverns, coffee houses, shops &c., were situated. Clive Street was also residential, while the present Strand Road had no existence, as the river flowed farther towards the east than it does now. The entire expanse beyond this English Settlement, from Bagbazar in the north, to the Circular Road in the east and Colingah to the south, was populated by Indians. The English Settlement was thus compact, but the Indian town sprawled anyhow in a succession of hamlets, huts, jungle, morasses, and paddy-fields in the area just described. The streets were not metalled and had wide open drains at the sides. There was no street lighting and no Police. People going out at night had to take torch-bearers with them to light the way.....For the Europeans there was a broad promenade along the riverside in front of the present Imperial Bank buildings, called the "King's Bench Walk". Another fashionable spot for evening walks or drives was Perrin's garden, situated at the extreme north-west corner of the town, i.e., the Bagbazar locality near the Chitpur Canal. The spiritual needs of the English were served by St. Anne's Church built in 1709, which stood a little to the east of the Old Fort, near the north-west corner of the present Dalhousie Square. It was destroyed during Serajuddowla's attack in 1756 and it was not until 1784 that St. John's Church was built. The Portuguese Church dates from 1797 and the Armenian Church from 1724. St. Paul's Cathedral was built in 1840 and consecrated in 1847, while St. Andrew's Church, which stands at the northern end of Old Court House Street was opened in 1813. It stands on the site of the old Mayoral Court (from which the present street derives its name) where, in the time of Warren Hastings, Maharaja Nanda Kumar was tried for an alleged offence of forgery and sentenced to be hanged by Sir Elijah Impey, in June, 1775. Some notable buildings as found in maps of the late 18th Century, were the Council House which stood a little to the west of the Government House, near the south-east corner of the present High Court buildings. The Mint was situated near the present Imperial Bank building and was removed to its present site in 1824. The

Play House (also called the Calcutta Theatre) stood at the corner of Clive Street and Lyon's Range. This was built by subscription in 1775, but after a little over a quarter of a century, it was being used as an auction house, and still later in 1808, it was purchased by Gopi Mohan Tagore for establishing a "Bazar" there. The next play house of any note was the Chowringhee Theatre (at the corner of Chowringhee and Theatre Road, the latter name being in its memory) opened in 1812. This was accidentally destroyed by fire in 1839; and the next notable theatre to come into existence was the "Sans Souci," which stood in Park Street on the site of St. Xavier's College and was opened in 1841. The Mission Church (in Mission Row) was founded in 1772 by J. Z. Kiernander, a native of Sweden, and is the earliest place of Protestant worship still in existence in Calcutta. The Writers' Buildings date back to 1776, when Thomas Lyon obtained a lease of the vacant ground to the north of Dalhousie Square, and built a range of barrack-like lodgings for the East Indian Company's "Writers" (i.e., clerks). The road to the north of the Buildings still bears the name of Mr. Lyon (Lyon's Range). The present ornamental appearance of the Buildings dates from the twenties of the 19th Century, when it housed the Fort William College and Students' Boarding. The only Indian building of note, marked in contemporary maps (such as Upjohn's map dated 1793 etc.) was the great pagoda or great temple. This was a lofty-temple crowned with a cupola, in Chitpur Road, built by Govindram Mitter (the "Black Zemindar") at enormous expense. The term "Black Zemindar" needs explanation. At this time, the affairs of the East India Company were managed by nine members, one of whom acted as "Zemindar" or Collector and was responsible for collection of rents etc., within the Company's limits, and for payment of the rent to the Delhi Emperor. He also tried civil and criminal cases relating to the Indian community in the "Foujdari Cutchery", and his other functions included policing the town, as also looking after the roads and drains. As it was practically impossible for one man to manage these multifarious duties, he had an assistant, an Indian official who was called the "Black Zemindar". This coveted post was held from 1729 to 1756 by Govindram Mitter, who amassed a huge fortune, of which a large portion was spent in building the temple. The temple was practically destroyed in the great cyclone of 1757.

As regards general conditions in the town, as already stated, there were no good roads, no street lighting, no Police. There was originally some attempt at establishing a system of night-watches by means of "an undisciplined battalion of thanadars and peons". We also find the Zemindar or Collector responsible for policing the town with a force consisting of a Head Peon, 45 under-Peons, 2 Chobdars and 20 guards.....

.....It was only in the year 1876 that for the first time, the town was divided into six Wards, each comprising one or more Police Stations, and each Police Station had jurisdiction over several "Mouzas", (e.g., Ward 5 had two Police Stations viz., (1) Bhowampur, comprising the Mouzas Bhowanipur, Chakrabere and Kalighat and (2) Alipore comprising the Mouzas Alipur, Zeerut, Radhanagar, Gopalnagar, Chetla, Durgapur, Sonadanga, Mayapur, Shururpur).

As regards roads, it was not until the early part of the 19th Century that a Lottery Committee was formed to raise funds (by means of authorised lotteries) for carrying out improvements in the Town, viz., excavating new tanks and filling up of old ones, opening new streets, constructing aqueducts, bridges, streets and other similar work. The Town Hall was built out of this fund in 1813, and many streets were improved or opened out e.g., Kyd Street, Free School Street, Amherst Street, Wellesley Street, College Square, Cornwallis Square, etc. The first "footpath" was made in 1853, by filling up the open drain running along the length of the Chowringhee Road in front of the houses.....Even upto the middle of the 19th Century the houses in Chowringhee Road were all residential, and there were no shops. At the corner of Dharamtolla Street was an untidy bazar, while the present Corporation Street (recently renamed

Sir Surendranath Banerjee Road) was an ill-kept Lane. The present Indian Museum building housed the old High School, which was removed to Darjeeling in 1863, and the Museum was opened in 1875. The Bengal Secretariat Offices were housed partly in the Government School of Art building and partly in Sudder Street.....The present Circular Road (Lower and Upper) which forms practically a complete semi-circle round the town in the present day, follows the line of the famous "Marhatta Ditch" which owed its origin to the following circumstances: in the year 1742 a party of Marhatta Raiders (called "Bargis") under Tanojee Bhonsla attacked and laid waste the country from Balasore to Rajmahal, captured Hooghly and approached so near Calcutta as to capture the Mukwa Tannah Fort (held by the English on the west bank of the river, near the present Botanical Gardens). The inhabitants of Calcutta were panic-stricken and the English obtained permission from the Nawab (Ali Verdi Khan) to dig a ditch all round the town for its protection, and the work was begun at once. In six months, about 3 miles of it had been completed, roughly from the Chitpur Bridge upto Entally. It was intended to extend it onwards upto the river-side at Hastings, but the work was never completed, as the Marhatta hordes had drawn off and the alarm had passed. In course of time the Ditch came to be the receptacle of all kinds of filth and garbage and it was filled in, in 1799.

The chief sources of supply of drinking water were the River, and for the Europeans the Lal-Dighi (Dal-housie Square Tank). In the Black Town, there were tanks, ponds and wells in profusion and no dearth of water supply. There was no Fire Brigade in those days, and on account of the numerous straw thatched huts in the town, fires were of frequent occurrence. One such occurred in 1780, which destroyed the entire inhabited portion from the corner of Sealdah upto Colingah, along Circular Road, in which 15000 huts were destroyed and nearly 200 people perished. As regards sanitation the less said the better. A foreign visitor (Grandpre) who came to Calcutta in 1790 writes "the roads were merely made of earth; the drains, mere ditches between the houses and the sides of the road, the receptacle of all manner of abomination. In fact the only scavengers about this time seem to have been the kites, crows, jackals and adjutant birds ("har-gila") which stalked freely about the City and made it their happy hunting ground. Attempts were of course made from time to time to take up the conservancy of the town, but with little success. In 1875, the town was divided into 31 Thanas, with Indian Thanadars in charge, two sullage carts to each thana in the Black Town, and four carts to each Thana in the English town. Similar spasmodic attempts were made from time to time but nothing much was done. The scheme of underground drainage was first mooted in the middle of the 19th Century and the work actually begun only in 1859, while the scheme for supplying filtered water to the town was taken in hand in 1860.

This short sketch may be rounded off by a comparative table showing the progressive growth of the town in the 18th Century as far as the figures are available from old records.

NUMBER OF HOUSES.

Year.	Pucca.	Kutchra.	No. of Street.	No of Lanes etc
1706	8	8000	2	2
1726	40	13300	4	8
1742	121	14747	16	120
1756	498	14450	27	126
1794	1114	13657	163	1037

For purposes of comparison it may be mentioned that the number of houses, as counted upto 1921, i.e., prior to the inclusion of three outlying Municipalities of Manicktolla, Cossipore and Garden Reach within Calcutta, was 1,71,448. As corrected upto the year 1931, the number of premises was 2,10,686 and the mileage of roads was about 385. A rough and ready census of the population of Calcutta appears to have been taken in the year 1800 and the figure arrived at was 5 lakhs. In the census of 1931 the figure was 11,96,734.

THE CALCUTTA IMPROVEMENT TRUST.

The city of Calcutta having been allowed to grow without any well laid-out plan, it had been one of the most insanitary and congested towns during its early stages. This city, however, being the Imperial Capital till the year 1911, attracted people from all parts of India and abroad, and the need for rebuilding and expanding the city on modern lines was therefore strongly felt for a long time, specially during the beginning of the present century. Strenuous efforts were made to achieve this object and the result was the creation of the Calcutta Improvement Trust.

An Act for the improvement of Calcutta, viz., the Calcutta Improvement Act (Act V B.C. of 1911) was enacted in 1911 to provide for the improvement and expansion of Calcutta by opening up congested areas, laying out or altering streets, providing open spaces for ventilation or recreation, etc. It was further considered expedient to constitute a separate agency, viz., a Board of Trustees, as distinct from the Corporation of Calcutta, and vest them with special powers for carrying out the objects of the Act. This Act was brought into being primarily for the purpose of effecting improvements within the municipal limits of Calcutta, with provisions, however, to extend its operations to any other area in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, to be notified by the Local Government in that behalf.

By a Notification published in April, 1939, the operations of the Board have been extended to a portion of the Howrah Municipality. The question of amending the Calcutta Improvement Act with a view to bringing the entire municipal area of Howrah within the operations of the Trust is under consideration.

The Trust, out of their own accord or on an official representation from the Corporation of Calcutta or on a written complaint by its Health Officer or one signed, and submitted through the Corporation of Calcutta, by 25 or more residents of any area comprised within a municipal ward, who are liable to pay either the owner's or occupier's share

- (5) A member of the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce (to be elected by that body), and,
- (6) Four other persons (to be appointed by the Local Government).

The operations of the Trust having been extended to a portion of the Howrah Municipality as afore-said, the following persons have been co-opted as members of the Board in respect of Howrah Scheme No. I under Section 19 of the Calcutta Improvement Act:—
